

CALLTOWER'S MSP PROGRAM:

How MSPs Can Utilize CallTower's Solutions and Strategic Partnerships

Efficient communication tools are essential for driving success in today's business environment.

Managed service providers (MSPs) play a critical role in delivering these solutions to organizations, enabling better connectivity, increased productivity, and stronger revenue growth. But what happens when a MSP's existing offerings can't fully meet their customers' needs? That's where CallTower steps in.

As a trusted leader in communication solutions, we empower MSPs through our Rebiller Program, granting access to our extensive portfolio of UCaaS and CCaaS services. This partnership equips you to expand your offerings, elevate customer communication, and drive business outcomes.

To highlight these benefits, we'll explore how CallTower helped a banking company overcome communication challenges and achieve new levels of success.

Recently, a mid-sized banking company needed help switching from an on-premises communication system to a cloud-based system and was introduced to CallTower by a partner to help with the transition. Specifically, the company wished to transition to Microsoft Teams and implement a closely integrated contact center solution. To ensure seamless communication using a single number for calls, chats, and video conferences, and with the strategic partnership we have with Five9, the company chose to use Five9 contact center and CallTower's MS Teams Operator Connect.

This transition and integration to cloud-based systems gave the banking company a reliable UCaaS and CCaaS solution to fit their business needs.

CallTower's services and solutions accomplished everything the company needed communication wise, to the point that they began referring us to other banks to help with their communication needs.

The collaboration of Five9 contact center and MS Teams Operator Connect has optimized the company's communications, both inside and outside of the organization, and enhanced their customer engagement.
